Exterminatus, I had a chance to tell the story of a primarch who'd gone over to Horus without high-minded notions of perfection or raising Mankind to a new psychic awareness. Perturabo willingly embraced betrayal because he couldn't see a way out of the rut he'd been driven into and the genocide he'd unleashed.

The direction McNeill has taken with Fulgrim (beginning in The Mirror, Crack'd) is... disappointing.

Perturabo is well realized and certainly intriguing, but between some downright silly scientific errors that can't be explained away by "lolthewarp" and a total cop out in Lucious' arc, Angel Exterminatus left this reader cold.
